BIO

I strive to tell stories that are both thematically rich and narratively charged with sensibilities that lie between the constellations of Shane Meadows and Jordan Peele. As a practicing Buddhist and passionate environmentalist, the culture in which a film is made is equally as important to me as the story being told.

After screening at over thirty festivals, my debut feature K-Shop was released theatrically before being picked up by Sky Cinema and Amazon Prime. K-Shop's themes of immigration and public disorder resonated with audiences at a time of rising populist politics around the globe.

My subsequent project A Patriot explored similar themes within the setting of a future British State physically walled off from the rest of the world. The film made it into pre-production with an exciting cast of Eva Green, Kathy Bates and Tim Robbins but was unfortunately aborted after a disagreement between Exec Producer Eva and the film's financiers,

My latest film Die Before You Die won several awards on premiere at Manchester Film Festival and will be released by Bulldog Film Distribution in autumn 2024.
